5.Emergency Response Plan- Junkin

Councilperson Junkin presented the City emergency plan handbook that was prepared by a previous public works director Kim Brantley in 2006 to be revamped so that the City can be better prepared for any type of emergency disaster or storm. Also, each department head was asked to be present for their input on this matter. Discussion was had and was agreed that the pre-existing emergency response plan will continue to be used as a basic guide, but updates will be done on the city administrative staff and city employees contact information. Fire Chief Montgomery directed everyone on how we could bridge the pathway for emergency preparedness and when and how to develop a central hub, training for department heads and all City employees and implement a command system and public information for disasters or emergencies. City attorney, Castete suggested that we get the literature of the Fema incident management system that Chief Montgomery suggested for training.
